Six Panel Gatefold Jacket
GLASS MASTERED CD

STREET DATE: NOVEMBER 27TH, 2020

What hath the FRINGE TREE wrought? Is it a mere figment of your imagination? Or is it something so out on the fringe that it nearly didn't register? - Well... BOTH.

Once a band reaches that four-decade mark in their existence, particularly a band such as CHEER-ACCIDENT, who have travelled so much aesthetic ground during this time, you just know that they have a veritable treasure trove of flotsam and jetsam (in varying degrees of "fi") lying around, just waiting to be turned into a whimsical encyclopedic series of semi-random aural events. - This Is That.

"Fringements One" is the first chapter, wherein CHEER-ACCIDENT avails to the public documentation of intimate practice space encounters, obscure demos, and even some "slicker" recordings that just never found a home on any of their other releases.

PRESS QUOTES:

"Most bands still churning in their fourth decade of existence don't see the kind of creative surge CHEER-ACCIDENT has nursed since 2017." - POPMATTERS

"Imagine a confluence of the grandeur of Yes, the range of This Heat, the irreverence of Ween, the poignancy of Elliott Smith and the mischief of Andy Kaufman, and you'll be getting close to the net effect of CHEER-ACCIDENT's musical output." - SIGNAL TO NOISE

Each glass-mastered compact disc comes complete in a hi-gloss six panel gatefold jacket - jam-packed with extensive liner notes on each and every practice space encounter, answering machine message, demo track and previously unreleased studio recording.
